

THEOSOPHS IN LONDON.

LONDON, July 10.—The convention of the Theosophic Society opened to-day. Mr. Olcott, who presided, reported that 246 branches had been formed, and that the branches were especially prosperous in America, the original home of the society.

The New York Times

Published: July 11, 1891

Copyright © The New York Times